COVID-19 & BEHAVIORAL HEALTH:

Understanding the Pandemic's Impact on Mental Well-being

The Louisiana Department of Health's Office of Community Partnerships and Health Equity and Office of Behavioral Health, and The University of Louisiana Monroe's Gerontology Program invites you to a COVID-19 behavioral health 5-part webinar!

As a kick-off introduction to the series, the COVID-19 & Behavioral Health session provides tools that Health Promotion Ambassadors can use within their communities to educate and promote prevention practices to the general public.

This introductory session highlights COVID-19 in regards to:

- A brief biological background on the virus.
- Methods for effectively preventing transmission.
- Phases of state reopening and general updates.
- Myths/stigmas associated with behavioral health.
- Stressors and reactors triggered when coping with COVID-19.

Additionally, the impacts of COVID-19 on the elderly population will be explored as the elderly experience increased risk of depression and suicide under the current pandemic.
